

Alexey Pavlov

A member of Hunting Department staff, deals with Russian and foreign clients. In the year of 1995 Alexey completed his studies at Moscow Teachers Training University in the field of Geography and the English Language. His postgraduate research in Moscow State University was devoted to the subject of Geoeology. There Alexey studied the methods of environment protection in the countries of East Africa on the example of the impact of Kenya ethnic groups ways of migration on the nature transforming in the region.

Since 1993 Alexey is a member of Russian Geographic Society. His first journey to Africa was undertaken in long-standing 1996 within the framework of a joint project of Russian Geographic Society and Institute of Ethnology of Russian Academy of Sciences.

Alexey worked as an academic in his native University at the faculty of Physical Geography, conducted seminars and lectures on Physical georgaphy, headed student field studies, supervised the course works and the thesis.

Many years he was occupied with the arranging of the trips to Africa and South America. Alexey loves the African continent. He visited numerous countries in Africa and always glad to come back to its spaces.

Alexey is friendly and outgoing person, he loves photography and travelling. Alexey joint ProfiHunt team in the year of 2011.

