

George Harms (NJ) is currently Triple Slammer #77 and has really been after the international sheep and goats the last few years. In the Winter issue of OVIS, George was seen with his Kuban (Western) tur, mid-Caucasian tur and Caucasian chamois. Soon after I received those reports from George he sent me a photo of a Hume argali he took in Kyrgyzstan during October 2008 that got him to the Ovis World Slam Super 20 level. This was George's 20th different species of wild sheep, but in his files I have that he has taken a total of 32 sheep. George, I have you with 16 different species of Capra animals, so is the Capra World Slam Super 20 in the near future?

George Harms (NJ, left) scored with this Hume argali from Kyrgyzstan in October 2008. A very happy George is indicating with his fingers that this is the ram that brought him to his Ovis World Slam Super 20.
