

Steve Hornady (NE) took this great Kuban (Eastern) tur with Vladimir Melnikov's Profi-Hunt in 2004.

The next two were a successful hunt in the Caucasus with Vladimir Melnikov's Profi-Hunt. I easily shot the smallest Caucasian chamois they've ever taken. My fault, shot the wrong animal when I was in a bit of a hurry. Oh well, it happens and anyway it adds one more Capra. The next day, we had a very successful hunt and stalk for a tremendous Western (Kuban) tur. He has a tremendous length and mass. Shot was about 200 yards and then I watched him tumble downhill and out of sight. Took us six hours to get down to where we could load him on horses and get out. Any way you look at it, I had a great hunt.
